Data as at 9:30am AEDT. Change is from the previous trading day (excluding the SFE, which is the change during the night session). Source: Bloomberg.

Main Themes: Market moves were relatively tame overnight, despite the largest 10-year treasury auction in history and comments from several Fed speakers.

Share Markets: US equities rose on some solid earning results. The S&P 500 rose 0.8%, while the NASDAQ jumped 0.9%.

Interest Rates: US interest rates were muted as the largest 10-year treasury auction on record was comfortably soaked up. The 2-year yield rose 3 basis points to 3.78%, while the 10-year yield rose 4 basis points to 4.12%.

Fed rate cuts are fully price for June with 120 basis points of cuts are priced in by the end of the year.

Foreign Exchange: The US dollar traded sideways. The DXY index ranged between 103.94 and 104.19 and is currently trading around this level.

The Aussie dollar was similarly quiet. The AUD/USD pair ranged between a low of 0.6516 and a high of 0.6540.

Commodities: Commodity prices were mixed. Oil and iron ore rose while copper and gold softened.

Australia: There were no major economic data releases yesterday.

Eurozone: German industrial production surprised to the downside in December. Production fell 1.6% in the month, compared to expectations for a 0.5% fall. In annual terms production fell 3.0%.

New Zealand: The labour market continued to show signs of strength as unemployment rose to 4.0% in the 4th quarter of 2023. This was up from 3.9% in the previous quarter. While higher in the quarter, the result was much stronger than expected. Consensus expectations centred on a rise in the unemployment rate to 4.3%. This signalled that the labour market is loosening more slowly than expected by consensus.

Other labour market indicators also signalled continued robustness in the labour market. Employment rose 0.4% in the quarter, to be 2.4% higher over the year. This was up from a 0.1% fall in the previous quarter and above expectations of 0.3% growth. However, the pace of employment growth was below population growth.

Wages continued to grow at a robust pace. Private sector wages excluding overtime rose 1.0% in the quarter, following 0.8% growth in the previous quarter. This was also above expectations of 0.8%.

The data suggests that the risk has increased that interest rate cuts from the Reserve Bank of New Zealand won't be coming until later in 2024.

United States: Several Fed members gave speeches overnight and struck a consistent tone. They continued to pour cold water on the likelihood of imminent rate cuts.
